The Lance Armstrong Foundation pledges $250,000 combined to two charities to assist in the relief effort in Haiti.

The country was struck with a large scale earthquake on Tuesday.

LIVESTRONG donated $125,000 to Partners in Health and $125,000 to Doctors Without Borders. Both organizations are providing medical assistance to victims in Haiti.

Lance Armstrong released a statement about the earthquake:

On behalf of LIVESTRONG, I'd like to take a moment to extend our condolences to the people of Haiti. This nation has just suffered a devastating earthquake. It has already endured far too much tragedy and needs our help now more than ever. LIVESTRONG is pledging $250,000 in humanitarian aid to Partners in Health, led by Paul Farmer, and Doctors Without Borders. Both of these groups have a strong presence in the region and have the ability to make an immediate difference in the rescue and recovery efforts that are already under way.

Lance Armstrong also posted a video message.

If you are interested in donating to either organization, click on the links above.

You can also give to the Red Cross, by clicking on this link or calling 1-800-RED-CROSS.

You can also text the word 'HAITI' to 90999 and $10 will go to the Red Cross and be added to your phone bill.
